

Law: The number of transistors double every 18 months.

Limitations:

1. Increasing the number of transistors would increase power consumption.
2. Increasing the number of transistors would increase heat generation.
3. Although, we can reduce the power consumption using voltage scaling, we cannot prevent power leakage through thin insulators. Voltage scaling is further limited by noise and threshold voltage.